

We're taking our Adoptable Animals on the road...

...and we can hardly wait to share them with you!

Here's how we do it...

You allow us to park the trailer at the location early in the week, with our banner saying "Adopt a Pet Here This Saturday". During the week, your employees might enthusiastically talk up the adoption event when your customers ask what's going on. You might do a food drive, and encourage your customers to make donations of food, litter, and cash for vaccinations, vet care, and other items on our wish list.

When Saturday comes, we open the trailer, bring in the dogs & cats, and the magic begins. We are able to do adoptions right there and in some cases, the pet can go home with their new family that day. Weekday events are possible as well. When parked in your lot, it draws attention to your business, (it's hard to miss) and tells the community "this business cares about the community and the animals."

Less than 20% of all animals are adopted from animal shelters,

So getting our adoptable animals out into our community is essential to finding them forever homes.

Some people just won't come to the shelter to adopt, because they say it makes them sad to see so many animals in cages and kennels. They want to take them all home, so when they can't, it makes them sad. Others may have recently lost a pet, and feel they aren't ready to adopt another one yet. Then they see an animal that tugs on their heart strings saying "take me, take me," and they realize they are ready to adopt.

Stray animals are a community problem that requires community support to alleviate. Show the community you are a "Pet friendly" corporate good citizen, by hosting an adoption event in your parking lot.

Be a lifesaver; spay/neuter your pets. No Birth is the fastest way to No Kill.

The trailer is a billboard to educate our community about the problem of pet overpopulation and the cure.

Two cats in their 6-7 year breeding lives can produce 420,000 kittens
Two dogs in their 5-6 year breeding lives can produce 67,000 puppies

For every dog and cat in the US to have a home, every person in the US would have to own 5 animals.
That means a family of 4 would have to own 20 animals.
So it's impossible to find them all homes. Spay/Neuter is the solution

4 million animals are put down annually
Thousands more suffer on our streets.

Be a lifesaver, spay/neuter your pets.

Community Events work as well. The colorful trailer helps draw attention to your event and attracts crowds. The bigger the crowd, the bigger the opportunity for adoptions and saving lives. Consider inviting us to your next school festival, church event, company picnic, or fair.
